Dauids and Sauls: Scott Hahn Reflects on the Seventh Sunday in Ordinary Time

Como David y Saúl: Scott Hahn reflexiona sobre el 7º Domingo de Tiempo Ordinario

The story of David and Saul in today's First Reading functions almost like a parable. Showing mercy to his deadly foe, David gives a concrete example of what Jesus expects to become a way of life for His disciples.

The new law Jesus gives in today's Gospel would have us all become "Davids", loving our enemies, doing good to those who would harm us, extending a line of credit to those who won't ever repay us.

The Old Law required only that the Israelites love their fellow countrymen. The new law Jesus brings makes us kin to every man and woman. His kingdom isn't one of tribe or nationality. It's a family. As followers of Jesus, we're to live as He lived among us, as "children of the Most High".

As sons and daughters, we want to walk in the ways of our heavenly Father, to "be merciful, just as your Father is merciful." Grateful for His mercy, we're called to forgive others their trespasses because God has forgiven ours.

In the context of today's liturgy, we're all "Sauls", by our sinfulness and pride we make ourselves enemies of God. But we've been spared a death we surely deserved to die because God has loved and shown mercy to His enemies, "the ungrateful and the wicked," as Jesus says.

Jesus showed us this love in His Passion, forgiving His enemies as they stripped Him of cloak and tunic, cursed Him and struck Him on the cheek, condemned Him to death on a cross. "He redeems your life from destruction," David reminds us in today's Psalm.

That's the promise, too, of today's Epistle: that we who believe in the "last Adam," Jesus, will rise from the dead in His image, as today we bear the image of the "first Adam," who by his sin made God an enemy and brought death into the world.

La historia de David y Saúl que aparece en la primera lectura de hoy sirve casi como una parábola. David, al mostrar misericordia de su enemigo mortal, da un ejemplo concreto del estilo de vida que Jesús espera de sus discípulos.

La nueva ley que Jesús da en el Evangelio de este domingo tendría que convertirnos en nuevos "Davides" que amen a sus enemigos, hagan el bien a quienes les amenazan, y den prestado a quienes no les pueden pagar.

La Antigua Ley solamente exigía a los Israelitas amar a sus compatriotas. La nueva ley que Jesús trae nos hace familiares de todos los hombres y mujeres. Su reino no es de una tribu o nación. Es una familia. Como seguidores de Jesús, debemos vivir como Él vivió entre nosotros: como "hijos del Altísimo".

Como hijos e hijas, debemos andar los caminos de nuestro Padre celestial; debemos ser misericordiosos como nuestro "Padre es misericordioso". Agradecidos por su misericordia, estamos llamados a perdonar las ofensas de los demás, pues Dios ha perdonado las nuestras.

En el contexto de la liturgia de hoy, todos somos "Saúles": por nuestra maldad y orgullo nos hacemos enemigos de Dios. Sin embargo, nos hemos librado de una muerte que seguramente merecíamos porque Dios ha amado y ha mostrado su misericordia a sus enemigos, los ingratos y malvados, como dice Jesús.

Jesús nos mostró su amor en su Pasión, perdonando a sus enemigos mientras lo despojaban de sus vestiduras, lo maldecían y golpeaban en la mejilla condenándolo a muerte en la cruz.

"Él rescata tu vida de la destrucción", nos recuerda David en el salmo de hoy.

Esa es también la promesa que aparece en la epístola de este domingo: Que los que creemos en el "último Adán", Jesús, resucitaremos a semejanza suya. Mientras tanto, nos parecemos al "primer Adán", que con su pecado se hizo enemigo de Dios e introdujo la muerte en el mundo.
